FROM: LINDA M. SPRINGER
DIRECTOR

Subject: Revised and Improved Interagency Telework Website

The U.S. Office of Personnel Management (OPM) is pleased to announce the launch of the new and improved Interagency Telework Website, telework.gov, developed in cooperation with our telework.gov partner, the General Services Administration. While the web address has not changed the look, feel, and layout of the information are updated and enhanced.

Features of the new site include:

- A mix of audience- and topic-driven navigation that makes content accessible and intuitive
- Quick links to key pages, including online training and Frequently Asked Questions (FAQs)
- An interactive FAQ database

We would like to thank the many individuals in Federal agencies who helped make this launch possible; in particular, the agency telework coordinators, who participated in focus groups and provided invaluable feedback and assistance.

Please share the new site with your employees and supervisors, and integrate it into your agency's telework toolkit. We welcome feedback and suggestions for further improvement and look forward to continuing our work with agency telework coordinators to meet their needs as well.
